West Jerfey, & their earnest & vehem^t desires for ye suppresssing ye selling of Rumme & other strong Liquors to them or their people: And finding their said request soe reasonable and equitable, being bac^t with such strong argum^ts as could not but bee admired; wee have beene induced to make a solemne agreem^t with them, for ye suppresssing of such Liquors within our Province: And upon their further request to us, doe (with them) hereby signifye o^r desires in ye p^rmisses aforesaid to you, That you will give us & them y^r afsistance in this good worke, by suppresssing ye vending of strong Liquors to ye Indians in yo^r Province: Otherwise ye Indian Sakamakers say; from henceforth (if any blood shall happen to bee spilt or any other mischiefe shall bee done, either amongst themselves, when drunk, or betwixt ye Christians & them) that they are cleare both from ye blood of their & o^r people: And ye mischiefe that may happen uppon ye Accompt aforesaid shall be laid and satisfaction required uppon ye Magistrate or Magistrates where such strong Liquors as aforesaid shall bee tollerated. We hope (when yo^r have well waighed ye p^rmisses) wee shall not need to use argum^ts to pswade you to foe good & necessary a worke: In ye interim

THE PARISH REGISTER OF ST. MARY'S, BURLINGTON, N. J.

The Records of St. Mary's Church, (Episcopal), of Burlington, N. J., are contained in several volumes, but only the first, which is of genealogical and historical interest, is here reproduced. This volume shows considerable decay, and is exposed to destruction by fire, as no special provision for its preservation has yet been made. Some years since, the Reverend Dr. Hills, then rector of this church, made a list of the names appearing in this volume, and inserted it in his history of this edifice, but as it lacks dates, it really is little less than an index to this volume.

The copy here reproduced is verbatim et literatim, save an occasional contraction in the spelling for brevity's sake. A comparison with Dr. Hills' list may show some seeming discrepancies in the spelling of names, but a careful consideration of the original text prompts me to hold for the accuracy of this copy.

J. E. STILLWELL.

THE REGISTER OF THE CHURCH OF ST. ANN'S, AT BURLINGTON.

Memorandum. This Church was called St. Ann's, (in the first Charter granted Octobr 4th, 1704, by Lord Cornbury), after the name of the Queen; but when a more ample charter was granted in 1709, Janu^y 25th, by Lieu^t Governor Ingoldsby, the Church was called St Mary's, and so continues to be denominated, on account of its first foundation-stone having been laid on the 25th of March, which was in 1703, but this it seems was not adverted to till afterwards.

April 7th 1768.

Oh, death thou hast conquerd me
I, by thy dart am slain
But, Christ, hast conquerd thee
And I shall rise again.

Thus must thy flesh to silent dust descend
Thy mirth & worldly pleasures thus will end
Then happy, holy Souls; but not to those Who Heaven forgot & earthly pleasures chose Hear now this preaching grave without delay
Believe, repent, & work while it is day.

Under this Marble
Are interred the Remains of Benjamin Baynton
He was a young Gentleman of singular Accomplishments of sound judgement lively imagination
And spotless Manners and had Divine Providence spared his Life, would from the many Pressages he had shown
Been an Honor to the Law
In which he was educated
He was
From the amiableness of his Disposition.
Beloved Cordially
By all his Acquaintances and sincerely admired
By those who knew him best.

Reflect Reader
That neither superior natural talents
Classical Learning
Nor the finest exterior acquirements on a form to command the utmost Respect
Can shield thee from the Stroke of the King of Terrors
Since he spared not this much admired youth who so amply possessed them all.

As a lawyer he was one of the brightest ornaments of the bar of New Jersey
 As a Statesman his services in the Senate of the United States bear witness to his ability & worth
 In the hearts of those who were blessed with his friendship his memory will be ever sacred
 But his best eulogium & his most durable memorial may be found in his services to his native State
 As a public man he loved his Country with the fervor of a patriot New Jersey with the devoted affection of a son

Here lie the remains of
William Bradford
Attorney General of the United States under the Presidency of Washington;
and previously Attorney General of Pennsylvania and a Judge of the Supreme Court of that State
In private life
he had acquired the esteem of all his fellow citizen[s?];
In professional attainment
he was learned as a lawyer and eloquent as an advocate;
In the execution of his publick offices,
he was vigilant, dignified and impartial Yet,
in the bloom of life;
in the Maturity of every faculty that could invigorate or embellish the human mind;
in the prosecution of the most important services that a citizen could render to his Country;
in the perfect enjoyment of the highest honours that publick confidence could bestow upon an individual; Blessed
in all the pleasures which a virtuous reflection could furnish from the past, and animated
by all the incitements which an honourable ambition could depict in the future
He ceased to be mortal.
A fever produced by a fatal assiduity in performing his official trust
at a crisis interesting to the Nation, Suddenly terminated his publick career, extinguished the splendour of his private prospects and on the 23rd day of August 1795,
in the 40th year of his age,
Consigned him to the grave.

Lamented, Honoured & Beloved
His widow erected this Monument to his Memory.

Elizabeth Coxe, dau. of John and Mary Coxe, d. August 10th, 1796. Aged 1 year, 6 Months.

In memory of Edith Ross wife of Robert Ross who departed this life August 31st 1800
 In the 52nd Year of her age

Here lies a faithful follower of her Lord,
 Who with a humble heart her God ador'd
 Of meekness, patience, gentleness possessed,
 Of wives, of parents, and friends the best,
 For liberal hand did feed and clothe the poor,
 Who often in distress approached her door,
 The Widow and the orphan found her kind,
 But few such friends to them are left behind,
 Affection warm and strong she did possess,
 The benefits of which how many miss,
 We weep, but will not murmur or complain,
 Since our loss to her is greater gain.
 Now her immortal soul hath taken flight,
 To dwell with saints in realms of glorious light.

Here

lie the remains of

The Honorable Elias Boudinot, L.L.D.

Born on the 2nd day of May A.D. 1740

He died on the 24th day Oct. A.D. 1821

His life was an exhibition of fervent piety, of useful talent, and of extensive benevolence.
His death was the triumph of Christian faith, the consummation of hope,
the dawn & the pledge of endless felicity.

To those who knew him not no word can paint,
And those who knew him, know all words are faint.
Mark the perfect man & behold
The upright for the end of that man is peace.

For the benefit of Posterity, (as while her cotemporaries live she cannot be forgotten),
This monument is Sacred to the memory of Hannah the wife of Elias Boudinot
and Daughter of John Stockton Esq.
who departed this life
Oct^r the 28th 1808 aged 72 years

She lived a life of Holiness from her youth, rejoicing in the Salvation of the Gospel.
It may justly be said of her that she always went about doing good:
Reader go then and do likewise.

born July A.D. MDCCXCIII

Richly endowed with Nature's gifts of mind, heart, and person;
with a sound judgment, and playful fancy,
an amiable temper and engaging manners;
affable, but modest; lively, but discreet;
a sincere and generous friend;
a pattern of filial duty and affection;
a tender, faithful, and loving wife:
she charmed the social circle,
and blessed the domestic sphere;
equally admired, respected, and beloved,
a christian in faith, in heart, and in life, reverencing God, and submissive to his will,
she adorned his gifts with humility,
and bore his inflictions with patience;
and young in years, but ripe in virtue,
worn with suffering, but firm in hope,
she calmly sunk [sank?] to rest.

July XXI An. Dom. MDCCCXXII; And ÆT. XXIX

Fair, Modest, Wise, Discreet, True, Generous, Kind,
Pure, Virtuous, Humble, Pious, Meek, Resigned;

THE FIRST TOWN BOOK OF MIDDLETOWN, N. J.

The records of Middletown, Monmouth County, N. J., consist of five volumes, viz.: The First Town Book, 1667-1695; The Second Town Book, 1699-1800; a book of "Estrays," 1731-1851; a book of "Cattle Marks," 1699-1853, and the "Town Poor Book."

They have had many vicissitudes. The first volume had been unheard of for years when it was discovered by Gov. Joel Parker. While in his possession, in 1880, I made my copy, which is here reproduced verbatim et literatim. Subsequently it was returned by him to the town officials, and has again been lost.*

At various times I have seen all these volumes, but now the most diligent inquiry only reveals the whereabouts of two, viz.: the book of "Estrays" and the book of "Cattle Marks."

The First Town Book is probably the oldest document of any size in the State of New Jersey, and possibly with one exception, (Newark), is the only perfect record of any settlement on the original Nicolls' patent, most of the records of the towns on this land grant having either been lost or much mutilated.

Between December, 1664, and December, 1666, the settlement of Elizabethtown, Middletown, Shrewsbury, Woodbridge, Piscataway and Newark, was effected by English people who came from Long Island and New England. The Dutch who held these lands prior to 1664, defeated all attempts to settle in this region by burdensome restrictions. When, however, the Dutch were overthrown and the English became supreme, Nicolls, the Governor of the Province and representative of its owner, James, Duke of York, granted two patents, which, from their liberal character, drew many settlers to this tract of land. These grants were known as the Elizabethtown and Monmouth Patents and within their limits grew the towns above enumerated.

After a brief ownership the Duke of York conveyed to Lord Berkeley and Sir George Carteret that portion of his domain which included these grants from Nicolls. Though this transfer from the Duke of York to the Proprietors was made at a date anterior to Governor Nicolls' patents, no news of the transaction had reached this country. The patents were applied for, issued and received in good faith by both parties, and no questions arose concerning their validity until the settlers had located themselves upon their grants and had further extinguished the Indian titles to the lands.

In the meanwhile the divided domain was represented by two Governors, Nicolls ruling for the Duke of York, and Philip Carteret for the New Jersey Proprietors. The latter soon

* In 1903 this book had not been found, nor had it been seen since 1884, when it was in the possession of Edward Hartshorne, Esq., now deceased, by whom it may have been loaned to others. The statement made in Ellis' History of Monmouth Co., N. J., that their quotations were made directly from this book is an error, Mr. Hartshorne assuring me that the compilers of this book had only been shown this valuable record, which is proven, as they have copied such typographical errors as were made by the Monmouth Democrat in printing my original manuscript.

Edward Tartte's writing fills the first fifty-nine pages of the book, 1667-1674. Signatures of James Mills and W^m Lawrence, John Wilson, Mordecai Gibbons, Benjamin Stout, Jonⁿ Stout, W^m Lawrence, Jr., James Bowne, Richard Hartshorne, James Grover and others appear.

Some of the clerks rather than struggle with the entries, secured Tartte to do the clerical work and simply put their names thereto. Some who did not employ him would have been wiser had they followed the example of the others.

The surname Deuell now reads Devell, with the accent on the first syllable.

commenced to exercise his prerogatives by enforcing taxation and creating laws which infringed the rights of the settlers under the Nicolls' charter. They rebelled promptly and in retaliation the validity of their land titles was questioned by Carteret who declared that they were null and void from being issued at a date later than the Duke's transfer to the Proprietors; that the Duke, represented by his agent, Nicolls, could not sell that which he did not own. On the other hand the settlers maintained that Nicolls' acts were legal, he being vested with governing power until relieved or stayed by an official notice to the contrary; and that, while he was superseded in England by the date of Carteret's commission, he was still the head of the government in New York, until his successor arrived, and his acts during this time were binding, especially as he lacked any knowledge of the Duke's conveyance to the Proprietors. This dispute was waged for many years and it is upon this interesting period in New Jersey State history that the old town book sheds much light.

March 17 1668-69 In a legall towne meeting : tho maior partt beeing present it was this day putt to the vote : concerning answering the demands of Luke watson and Samuel Moore : who were authorized by the generall assembly to demand our positive resolution of submission to the government of the absolute lords proprietors as sayth the act : bearing date the 7th of november : it was unanimously resolved that this following act shall bee our positive resolution and shall bee presented to the generall assembly Viz That if the oath of alleagance to our Sovereigne lord the king : and Fidelity to the lords proprietors Interest bee the submission intended in the act : this is our result : That as true Loyall subiects to the king : wee are ready at all demands : either to engage : swear : or subscribe : all true alleagance to his roiall maiesty of England : as in duty bound either before the governour : or any other minister of Justice authorized by him to administer the same : without any equivocation : or mentall reservation as true loiall subiects ought to doe and this wee will perfourme absolutely xx

As to the Lords proprietors Interest

It beeing a new unheard of thing to us : and so obscure to us that at present wee are ignorant what it is : yet as men : not void of Judgement knowing right well : that all oaths : engagements : or subscriptions : ought to bee administred and taken : in truth : in righteousness and in Judgement : upon wch consideration wee are nott willing to swear to (wee know nott what : yet by what hath bin presented and come to our hands from the Governour at severall times viz : 1 : an order or law came in the yeare 1666 prohibiting any from selling wine to the Indians : under great penalty : though it seems now : that above the quantity of two gallons may bee tollerated by a law : 2d : warrants comming to our hands : nott in his maiesties name but in the lords proprietors names : beeing such a name : as wee simple creatures never heard of before 3d : an acount that our deputies gave us : beeing returned from the generall assembly held in November last who informed us thatt the honored Governour tould them (speaking concerning their pattent : that notwithstanding your pattent said hee : yett new lords must now have new lawes

and further they declared to us that the governour toal them that governour Nicolls could nott give away his master's lands and further said that when your pattent was in granting that captaine James Bullen my secretary putt in his caveat : and soe putt a stop to it : Captaine Bullen then affirming the same 4th 5th [Sic] An order comming from the Governour and Counsell bearing date the : 1 : of March (68) prohibiting the townes of Middleton and Shrewsbury from electing any officer : or any officer from executing any office upon penalty of beeing proceeded against as mutineers : 6th : an act of the generall assembly : stiling : (the right honorable John Lord barkley and S[ir] George Cartrect) the absolute lord proprietors xx By all wch wee conceive : that the lords proprietors Interest is :: not onley : the absolute sov-

eraignity : ffrom weh all laws must bee given : but all soe : the absolute propriety : from weh all lands must bee holden : (wee say) if this bee the interest soe specified in the Governours late order : and intended in the oath : and in partt the submission demanded by the act

This is our result

Wee having received a pattent from his Roiall highnes the Duke of Yorkes Deputy : owning us : nott onely to have purchased our lands from the cheife proprietors of the country : but all soe impowring us to give prudentiall lawes to our selves : both for our safety : and our well beeing : : and should wee submitt to the interest : soe farre : as by either engaging : swearing : or subscribing to the lawes of the government under the lords proprietors : how contrary and preiudiciall would it bee to our present safetys wittnes a law made the last generall assembly : giving liberty to sell wine to the Indians : weh liberty tends meerely to our destruction : many sad former experiences have wee had among us wittnessing the same : it beeing a liberty soe contrary to the lawes of New Yorke from whence our pattent had its originall over and besides (our pattent giving us such liberty) as giving laws to our selves : how are wee bound to take lawes from the goverment of the lords proprietors (criminalls and apeals excepted) by weh it is manifest : that neither the lords proprietors nor the generall assembly can in the least breake our liberties and priveledges : butt wee ourselves will bee found to bee selfe violators of them in submitting by swearing

to such and Interest : as wee are nott bound to : besides at present noe provision beeing made by the lords proprietors Government. for the conservation of the liberties and priveledges of our pattent they are liable to bee infringed upon by such acts weh are resolved by the maior vote in the generall assembly : then how should wee submitt by swearing to the lawes of the government : and nott bee guilty of selfe violation of our pattent our selves x And for as much as they are stiled the absolute lords proprietors ffrom hence : it is absolutely granted and necessarily followeth that all such inhabitants as lives upon this propriety : are absolute tennants to the lords to the lords proprietors : and by vertue of this their submission : by oath to their Interest : are irricoverably invovk'd to pay such lords rents : as will answer the Interest to weh they have sworne : and should wee submitt to the Interest soe farre as by swearing thereunto : Having a propriety of lands nott onely purchased from the cheife Proprietors of the Countrey : Viz : the Indians : but allsoe granted unto us by the Deputy to his Royall highnes the duke of Yorke (weh apears under hand and seale) it would bee an act beneath the wisdom of the owners of such a pattent : and herein wee should apeare to bee selfe violators of our pattent ourselves : and for as much as the lords proprietors rents from such inhabitants as lives upon the propriety) apears in the concessions : viz : a halfe penny an acre at least : should wee submitt soe farre to the Interest by swearing : whose acknowledgments by vertue of pattent to his Royall highnes : have their dependancy upon such payments as others his maiesties subiects doe in the government of New Yorke to his Royall Highnes : it would bee an act as wee conceive weh would bee a dishonour to him that gave it : Here in wee should apeare to bee selfe violators of our pattent our selves : but for as much as there is an assignement made by his Royall highnes to the lords proprietors of such a tract of land in weh our pattent may bee comprehended : wee looke at our selves to bee (not onely) responsible to the lords proprietors : in all such acknowledgments as others his maiesties subjects doe : in the government of new yorke to his Royall highnes : (butt alsoe) to transmitt all criminalls arising amongst ourselves : and such apealls as are proper to bee transmitted : to the triall of lords proprietors goverment : : These : and noe other beeing the same iniunctions : weh once wee were subordinate to the government of New Yorke : nott any way now nullified : altered : or changed as wee conceive but onely tranferred by vertue of the Assignement to the sayd lords proprietors and their Government : Notwithstanding for the future benefitt and tranquillity : and for the establishment of peace in the province : wee shall bee willing to submitt to the lords proprietors interest acording to the late order provided that some secure way could bee projected : or some provision made by the lords Proprietors government : weh might secure us from destroying of our selves by weakning this our interest weh wee soe highly prize weh indeed is the very foundation of our lively hood : if noe secure way or course : can bee thought one : or projected to secure our owne interest : wee are att present resolved : not to intangle ourselves into any other interest pertaining to any men : but shall : (by the asistance of God :) sticke to our patent : (the liberties and priviledges thereof weh is our interest : weh once was committed to us : nott to betray : like treacherius men : who for filthy lucre's sake have bin ready to betray themselves and others : but to deale faithfully with : it beeing a trust committed to us : and in soe doing : wee conceive : wee need nott feare whatt any man : or power : can doe unto us : and for as much as att present wee conceive : that upon this our Interest there hath bin lately an in road made upon it : by vertue of an order coming from the governour and counsell : and by commision : published in our towne : prohibiting any officer that hath bin constituted by vertue of pattent to execute any office till they had sworne to the lords proprietors interest upon penalty of beeing proceeded against as mutineers : (too salve weh) wee shall make our addresses unto the highest authority in the country for remedy : and this is our positive resolution in answer to the act : desiring further : that this our answer may bee presented to the generall assembly to prevent misinformation.

of the BAPTIST CHURCH, MIDDLETOWN, N. J.

The records of the Middletown Baptist Church have been poorly kept. Prior to 1712 none are known.

From 1712 to 1735 they are meagre and suddenly stop, and leave us uninformed of church matters, until 1785. Space has been left between these dates, 1735-1785, from which it would appear that former church clerks kept their records loosely, and often as personal, rather than church property, with intent to insert them at convenient time, and such has recently been proven the case by the discovery of Elder Mott's Journal.

The book, in possession of the church, is a large parchment bound folio, and opens:

"THE CHURCH RECORD BEGUN DENOVA JUNE ANNO DOM 1712"

"At a meeting y^e 31st day of May Anno Dom. 1712 Ordered y^t y^e foore first Leaves of this book be Cut out and Set[?] out y^t it may be ——— knowen how many leaves are Cut out by Order of said Meeting.

"Att ye yearly meeting May ye 24th Anno Dom 1712", an agreement was made to submit differences, to friends from Philadelphia, in the matter of the regularity of excluding John Okison from the church as a member, and whether, if they find him guilty, he be allowed to preach

After a lengthy digest of the disturbance the referees decided upon a course, adopted in eight articles, which left the church the privilege to select Bray or Okison and to which they, the referees, subscribed:

Timothy Broocks	James James
Abell Morgan	Griffith Miles
Joseph Wood	Edward Church
Elisha Thomas	William Betredg
Nicolas Johnson	John Mannery

After another series of devout utterances in eight provisions, the members sign an agreement.

INSCRIPTIONS
THE BURYING GROUNDS
MONMOUTH COUNTY, N. J.

In walking through the cloisters of Westminster Abbey you may see at your feet lines, in brass and stone, now nearly effaced. They once recorded, in eulogistic verse, the pious acts of saintly monks or the mighty deeds of valiant knights. But, alas, like the dead whose memory they were ever to keep fresh, they too have passed into dust, and we are left to conjecture what they were and to ponder over the effects of time. It is now too late to rescue these epitaphs, and no man can unbosom the secrets of these stones. The same profound feeling of regret that I experienced there has more than once been awakened in looking into the burying grounds of old Monmouth. Here, as in the old Abbey, has time been at work, and more than one stone stands mute. This country is young compared with others, yet old enough to have a noble history of its own, and the essential element of that history is the action of its men. To save all that which pertains to them is absolutely necessary, and too long already has been the delay. While much is lost, we can, by way of atonement for past neglect, rescue that which remains, and there is no field which calls for prompter attention, or which will prove more profitable to the historical and genealogical student, than the old graveyards scattered through Monmouth County. It is difficult to realize that the fair fields of Monmouth were once covered by a forest, massive and trackless. Following the arrival of the settler, clearings were made and humble homes were erected. There were no attempts made at display, no vying to outdo the other, but an intense, earnest effort on the part of each to develop his own resources. They who first penetrated here were men fitted by previous experience to grapple successfully with all obstacles, and soon they transformed portions of this wilderness into "garden spots." Many of them had reached mature age and not a few were advanced in years, so that only a short time elapsed before some of their number were laid low in death. All communicating roads were, as yet, mere foot-paths, and no common place of sepulchre had yet been thought of, and could not have been attained, even if desired, from the unopened condition of the country and the widely scattered locations of the settlers; hence, as deaths occurred, all families were forced to bury on their own land. Later, those who were connected by marriage, or who had the claims of kinship or friendship, were laid to rest in these original plots. Still later, when religious societies erected church edifices, it became a common custom to inter beneath their shadow, and in more than one instance the graveyard has outlived the church.* Slowly the churchyards have filled, and as a consequence the large cemeteries now in use have been set apart. What the future has in store it is hard to say, but if the story can be read in the experience of the past, time will leave no greater trace of the tombstone than it does of the body over which it was reared.

Already many have gone, and with them a priceless historical note; some gone by the action of time, some by the destructive hand of man, who, in his greed for the quarter acre lot, has cast down the rails, ploughed over the mounds and incorporated the headstones in the masonry on his farm.

In nearly all instances, the earlier deeds contained reservations protecting these primitive graveyards, but in the frequency of transfers they have, of late, been omitted, and, even when not, the occupant has sometimes disregarded his obligation and leveled them to the ground.† However, in justice let it be said that some, even where no tie of blood exists, have kept these lots in repair, and in other cases, where circumstances have made it desirable that they should be abolished, they have removed all that remained to the larger cemeteries, with due regard for those who were living as well as with proper reverence for those who were dead.††

It will be observed that no tombstone antedates the year 1709; the earlier ones, if any ever existed, are destroyed. Doubtless the first generation of settlers had monuments erected over their graves, but whether of a lasting kind is much to be doubted. The scarcity of graves made it no difficult matter to fix in mind the occupant of each, and it was only as interments increased that it became necessary to distinguish one from another. Hence the mound of stones gave place to the wooden tablet, and this in turn to the tombstone. Among the oldest ones time has made serious inroads, and before another decade will have passed many will have become indecipherable. While the record of an interment may be preserved here, it must, sooner or later, come to pass that, as the epitaph becomes obliterated, the exact location must be lost, and for that I can see no help.

THE PRESBYTERIAN BURYING GROUND

MIDDLETOWN, N. J.

On the South side of the highway running through Middletown may be seen, standing close to the road, an enclosed graveyard. In Summer it is somewhat obscured by the dense growth of shrubs and weeds, but in Winter, when the leaves have fallen, it cannot fail to attract attention. It lies between the farm of Dr. Edward Taylor on the West and the farm of the late Crawford Hendrickson, Esq., on the East. It was here that the Presbyterian church was erected, and where in turn the Rev. Messrs. John Boyd, Joseph Morgan, Samuel Blair, Elihu Spencer and Charles McKnight preached the gospel. In time, both pastors and flock were dispersed, and the church fell into decay. At what time its final demolition occurred it is hard to say, but it was many years ago. The tombstones in this cemetery are in a singularly

* In Topanemus, as well as in an old burying ground in Freehold, there are stones so badly scaled and worn as to render each and every line and word indecipherable.

† Topanemus and the Presbyterian burying ground, of Middletown, are instances where the yards have long outlived the churches.

 The vault of the Kearns, at Keyport, has been invaded, and the coffins despoiled of their plates.

† Hart, Horne, Throckmorton, Seabrook, Taylor and others reserved, a plot of ground for a burying place, in their wills.

†† Charles T. Hendrickson, deceased, of Middletown, removed the burial place of the Seabrooks, from the lane extending to his house, to a desirable plot in Fairview Cemetery.

I am informed by James Steen, Esq., that the Van Brunt burial ground is now completely obliterated.

It is said that John Vandervere planted, many years ago, trees to exactly locate the fast fading position of Topanemus church.

fine state of preservation, owing partly to the exposed condition of the stones and protection thereby from dampness, and partly to the fine quality of the stone itself. Of the exceptions to this that exist, the most conspicuous is that of the tombstone of John Bowne, Esq., which is badly effaced near the ground level. A few others are beginning to yield to time, having cracked and fallen to the earth, but in the main the condition of the plot and the stones is better than will be found in yards of more recent origin. The oldest stone in the yard is that of Capt. John Bowne, erected in 1715-16. It is not unlikely that some were interred here prior to that date, of whom there is now no visible record.

* During the Summer of 1903, Mr. George Douglass Tallman, acquainting few or none of Dr. Stephen Tallman's descendants, removed the tombstones, and such remains as could be found in this lot, to Fairview Cemetery, Middletown, N. J. The natural obliteration of the bodies and the utter impossibility to locate those buried without stones, as for instance the wife and sons of Dr. Tallman, made such a removal a farce. Surely more of the family was left behind than taken, and it is another instance of interference, lacking as much in sentiment as justice.

TOPANEMUS BURYING GROUND

MARLBORO, N. J.

Topanemus was the name applied, in the early history of this county, to a locality originally situated in Freehold township, but now in Marlboro. The name is perpetuated by its application to an old graveyard situated on the farm of John Vandevere.

It was here through the efforts of George Keith, that a Quaker meeting house was built in or about the year 1692, which subsequently, when he repudiated Quakerism and crossed over to the established church of England, became an Episcopal house of worship. As such it was used for some time, but doubtless later was either rebuilt or substituted by another edifice which they called St. Peter's.

Topanemus was in no sense a settlement, but merely a church site. The Rev. Thomas Thompson, writing in 1745-1750, says: The situation of Topanemus, which is distant from any town, is, however, convenient enough to the congregation, and was resorted to by many families in Middlesex county, &c.

At a date subsequent to 1751, but prior to 1760, the church at Topanemus was torn down, and still bearing the name of St. Peter's, was rebuilt in the village of Freehold. Into the new structure was worked a portion of the material taken from Topanemus, and it is in this now old church that the Episcopal service is still conducted.

The site of the graveyard at Topanemus is distant some little way from the road, yet can easily be seen. Trees and underbrush are plentiful, and the stones are moss-covered, fallen and broken, and some unhappily lost. Of the origin of the name there is no certainty, but from its peculiar sound it is presumably Indian.

THE ANCIENT LIPPIT, OR TAYLOR, BURYING GROUND

MIDDLETOWN, N. J.

This plot is situated on the farm of Mr. Charles Morford, on the North side of the highway in the village of Middletown, about five rods back from the road, directly behind the residence of Mrs. Blanc. The ground was first appropriated for this purpose by John Throckmorton, the 2d, who, in his will written in 1690, makes reservation of it as one quarter of an acre in Middletown, where my father was buried.

This property passed to his daughter Sarah, who married Moses Lippit, and from their son, John Lippit, it was conveyed in the year 1754, to Edward Taylor, always, however, "reserving and excepting a small piece of ground being enclosed in the burying yard, being in length about eighty-four feet and in breadth about thirty feet." From and after this date it became also known as the Taylor burying ground, which name it now bears to the exclusion of the other. In it are interred John Throckmorton, the 1st, and his sons John and Job; Sarah daughter of John Throckmorton, (2d), and her husband, Moses Lippit, as also several of her children, and Alice, daughter of John Throckmorton, (2d), and her husband, Thomas Stillwell, and their son John Stillwell and his wife, Mercy Burrows. How many others may lie here it is impossible to state. The graves of many of these enumerated have been unmarked, and time has altogether effaced the mounds, and no trace exists of where they were interred. Some of the old stones have fallen and others are fast losing their epitaphs by reason of their age, but all are still decipherable.

THE HARTSHORNE BURYING GROUND

MIDDLETOWN, N. J.

The yard is conspicuously situated on the North side of the highway in Middletown village. There are few old stones in the plot, but doubtless there are some early settlers or their immediate descendants buried there, other than the Hartshornes; such privilege being extended to them by circumstances readily imagined. When Richard Hartshorne, the first, moved from Portland Point to the village of Middletown, he built the old house which still stands on the North side of the street, and which today is probably the oldest building extant in this county. Here he died in 1722, and in his will made mention of a "family burial plot of a half acre on the street, in the orchard east of the house where I now live." Here he was buried, though the knowledge of the exact site is lost.

MORFORD BURYING GROUND

MIDDLETOWN, N. J.

On the farm of Jehu Cooper, adjacent to the bridge crossing the Shrewsbury River and connecting the Middletown turnpike with Red Bank, is the site of an old burying ground.

It is stated that there were originally many headstones, but all traces of them are lost, save three lying against the stone wall of an adjacent field. The grave mounds have been leveled with the plough and the exact site of interment can only be surmised. Mr. Cooper informed me that the Springsteens were buried there, but subsequently disinterred, but where reburied he is not informed, nor can he recollect the names of any others.

It might further be added that the supposed site of this burial plot is in the orchard behind his house, (on the right passing from Middletown to Red Bank), about one acre distant from the turnpike.

Thomas Morford, Esq., died, April 12, 1750, aged 58 yrs., 2 mos., 10 days; also foot-stone Thomas Morford.

Jarrat Morford died, June 1, 1761, aged 46 yrs., 7 mos., 3 days.

Another stone indecipherable; from its size, a headstone.

Here lies what was mortal of | The Rev. Mr. John Tennent | Nat. Nov. 12, 1707, Obijt
April 23 | 1732- [Upon a flat stone. Also an eulogium.]

[Some infants' inscriptions are omitted.]

The largest and most conspicuous stone in the yard, is today, in part, indecipherable. The Latin inscription is crudely engraved and the stone itself much worn, making a perfect transcription impossible and the accuracy of the translation a trifle doubtful. It marks the place of interment of the Rev. John Boyd, and, when the church was yet erect, it probably stood close to its walls.

Since making my copy of the Tennent Church tombstones, an interesting "History of Old Tennent Church" has appeared, written by its pastor, the Rev. Frank R. Symmes.

In an appendix, he gives a partial list of the tombstones in the churchyard, which, in the main, represents those interred prior to 1800. My copy is somewhat fuller, extending well down the 19th century, and giving months, days and other data omitted in Mr. Symmes' history. However, it did not include the following epitaphs, which are taken from Mr. Symmes' list.

QUIT RENTS.

The feud that arose between the Settlers and the Proprietors has been, of late years, fully dealt with in various New Jersey histories, and it is only necessary to briefly outline it here for a proper understanding of the Quit Rents.

It seems paradoxical to state that the sparsely settled towns of New England and Long Island were crowded; yet, within a few years after their establishment, such was the feeling of their occupants, and they began to look about for other lands whereon to settle either themselves or their rapidly growing families. With this in view, a number of the English of Gravesend sailed to the Navesink region, December, 1663, to barter for the lands of the Indians; but the Dutch claimed sovereignty, and for the moment defeated their aims. Before many months elapsed, the long-existing friction between the Dutch and English was terminated by the conquest of the former, who capitulated to Col. Richard Nicolls, who had been sent against them by Charles II. with a force of six hundred soldiers, in three vessels carrying one hundred and fifty guns. Nicolls, likewise, bore a commission, as Deputy Governor, under the Duke of York, afterward James II., who had received the lands, now known as New York and New Jersey, from his brother, the king. To rapidly develop this territory, Nicolls made generous terms to the willing and eager settlers, which included:

- (1) The right to purchase the Indian title without tax of any kind on the part of the Governor;
- (2) To be free from all manner of assessments for the five years succeeding the creation of a town, which was obligatory, and at the expiration of that period to be taxed only for the public rates, as then customary among the English and Dutch;
- (3) To own the lands absolutely;
- (4) To have freedom of conscience, limited self-government, and the election of their minister, as well as civil and military officers.

Not one suggestion was made that they should pay rent for their lands.

The tempting pledges held out by Nicolls produced prompt emigration from Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New York, many settlers disposing of their lands and laboriously journeying with their families and belongings to the new Mecca.

Upon April 8, 1665, Governor Nicolls conveyed, to twelve Patentees and their associates, the lands now contained in Monmouth County, and parts of Middlesex and Ocean Counties, with a sea-front of more than one-half of the present State of New Jersey, in a patent which embodied the promises and stipulations made in his proclamation of Sept. 30, 1664.

The settlers promptly complied with the terms of the patent, but the auspicious conditions under which they started were soon marred by an infringement of their rights by new owners of the land, Lord Berkeley and Sir George Carteret, Lords Proprietors, who had bought the Duke of York's title to the property, and sent as their representative Philip Carteret, who superseded Nicolls in office, and who promptly promulgated new terms imposed by his masters, which ignored the agreements under which they had taken up the lands. Chief among these was the demand of the Proprietors for rent, the right to which was resisted and became the cause of great unrest and revolt. The contention of the settler was that he had in good faith abandoned one home for another, under assurances of no rent for lands which he bought of the Indians, and for which he braved the hardships of a new country, the solitude of a wilderness, and the dangers of the wild beasts and savages; while the Proprietors claimed that the titles given by Governor Nicolls were void, as they were issued at a date subsequent to their ownership of the land, and that he could not grant that which he or his master did not own; to which the settler demurred, answering that Governor Nicolls' acts were binding till he was relieved of office. Defiance, disputes, appeals, friction, riots and imprisonments, covering many years and many changes of ownership, were the outcome. One concession only was made on the part of the Proprietary interests, namely, a grant of five hundred acres of land to such of the Patentees who had laid out money in purchasing the Indian titles. This was accepted by the Patentees, with reservations. The associates, in fear that the despotism which prevailed at home and abroad might work to their lasting injury, reluctantly recognized the Proprietary power by applying for warrants and surveys for their previous grants, upon which Quit Rents were then levied and collected.
